BUSINESSMEN PROTEST ALLIES' BLACKLISTING

Plans on Foot By New York Firms to Fight Recent Boycott Order

(Associated Press by Federal Wireles)
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 22.—An inquiry has been directed by the state department to the British government regarding the meaning of announcements of the establishment of a "blacklist" including all American firms who deal with enemies of the Entente Allies. Simultaneously with a cabinet discussion of the matter yesterday came news from New York of a meeting of businessmen interested, who declared that the new British order would have a far-reaching, disastrous effect upon American commerce.

RUSSIA LAYS PLANS FOR ENEMY CONQUEST WITH AID OF JAPAN

(Special Cable to Hawaii Hock)
TOKIO, Japan, July 22.—The Russian government, according to despatches received here, is preparing to carry on the war for at least two years more, and has placed orders for supplies accordingly.

The report received from Petrograd is that the Russian government has announced that she will not cease fighting until she has not only retaken the territory occupied now by the enemy, but has invaded Germany, Austria, Turkey and the Balkans.

The Japanese government has accepted an offer of the Russian government for supplies of ammunition twice the amount that has been supplied so far. The Russian government, it is stated in the same Petrograd despatch, has also made offers to the United States for supplies of food and machinery.

ASQUITH TO ASK FOR HUGE APPROPRIATION FOR WAR EXPENSES

(Associated Press by Federal Wireles)
LONDON, England, July 22.—According to treasury department estimates the credit which will be asked for by Premier Asquith in parliament next Monday will be approximately £100,000,000, the largest appropriation of the war so far. Asquith, it is stated, will declare that this enormous sum is needed for the equipment of the armies and support of the navy and assistance of Great Britain's Allies.

DEUTSCHLAND CREW BANQUETED AT BALTIMORE

(Associated Press by Federal Wireles)
BALTIMORE, Md., July 22.—Last night Captain Koenig of the submarine and fourteen members of his crew were banqueted by Baltimore Germans and German-Americans.

The captain, in addressing his hosts, said, "I will see you again in a few weeks." The remark, taken as meaning that the captain expected to return to Germany and at once make another trip across the Atlantic, was widely applauded.

According to reports last night, the submarine Bremen is likely to arrive at any time. It was indicated in the remarks of Captain Koenig that he expected to greet the Bremen, and there are also preparations on the part of the American customs and other officials which are thought to mean that they expect to have to receive, and enter, the Bremen.

It is reported that a force of German submarines which conveyed the Deutschland across the Atlantic are waiting to escort her on the homeward journey.

OUTLOOK HOPEFUL FOR CONFERENCE WITH MEXICO

(Associated Press by Federal Wireles)
WASHINGTON, July 22.—All the indications now are in favor of an agreement between the United States and the Carranza de facto government of Mexico.

Acting Secretary of State Polk and Dr. Arredondo, ambassador-designate of the Mexican government, held a lengthy conference yesterday afternoon. They declined to give out any details concerning their discussion, but it is known that the conference tended towards a complete, friendly settlement of questions at issue.

Reports from below the border show continued bandit fighting. One report has it that Villa is encamped 35 miles south of the Chihuahua border, and is entreaching his forces preparatory to meeting any attack that may be made on him. This report could not be verified.

Some 60 members of the 65th and 10th N. Y. N. G., engaged in a free-for-all at Stormville, N. Y., a "wet" town two miles from Camp Whitman and 48 landed in the guardhouse as a result.

Twenty-Two Pleased Tourists, First Oceanic S. S. Company Summer Excursion, Tell of Trip's Delights

Tourist party seeing Hawaii by boat and rail. The large picture shows the party on the Moana hotel grounds.

When the Oceanic Steamship Company sent its first summer excursion to the Hawaiian islands this month it naturally expected the excursion would be successful, never having heard anything derogatory or disparaging of this land, but it did not conceive that every member of the party would return to rave about each feature of the whole tour and to declare emphatically that he, and she, would do it all over again when the necessary 225 "bucks" in "kale" of the U. S. A. was assembled or when the cares of their various businesses or occupations would permit.

There are 22 in the party which left San Francisco on the Fourth of July, headed west, and none says it was not the most appropriate observance of Independence Day ever undertaken. It has been one grand Fourth of July from start to finish and all the excursionists feel, as one of the fair misses expressed herself with almost humorous sadness, "I just don't want ever to go home."

The party comes chiefly from California, but several states are represented, as far East as New York. The trips around Oahu, to the Volcano and in and about Honolulu have all been taken and enjoyed and the party is now resting and enjoying a few quiet days at the Moana hotel and in the surf at Waikiki before the return trip, July 25.

Each visitor expressed enthusiasm when interviewed about the excursion during one of the quieter hours at the Moana and there was not one complaint, unless it be that they had not seen the islands before and could not stay longer. It is the first visit for all, but from the chorus of "you bet" when asked if they were coming back it will not be the last. The tourists have many commendatory remarks for Honolulu, the Hawaiian people generally and the Oceanic Steamship Company particularly, but they are all agreed on the ample time allowed for the tour, its inexpensiveness and the apparent efforts of those in charge to show every possible consideration and supply every convenience.

The entire trip with everything paid from the time the excursionists boarded the steamer at the San Francisco pier until they step back upon it again at the end of four weeks costs each person $225. This includes all steamer, railroad and automobile transportation, hotel accommodations on Oahu and Hawaii and all side trips to such places as the museum, the fair and the aquarium. Each of the party started with a perforated ticket a yard or more long which has gradually diminished as the various steps in the journey were taken. The last piece of the ticket will be surrendered with regret when Diamond Head fades into the sea as the Sierra speeds eastward toward their homes.

Expressions from one word to a thousand were obtained which were "padding" or boded down as follows:

MISS HETTYLEIGH CLAYTON, Los Angeles teacher: "My vocabulary fails. To say 'grand' would cheapen the party."

MISS ELSIE BUEHN, residence, occupation, expression, alito above.

J. J. O'CONNOR, vice-president and cashier, Austin Savings Bank, Chicago: "I never had so much for my money in my life."

(Editor's note. Other members of the party thought this was pretty "good," coming from a banker.)

J. H. CLEMONS, Union Land & Cattle Co., Reno, Nev.: "You would never know it was an excursion."

MRS. CLEMONS: Same as "J. H.," with added emphasis.

MISS ELIZABETH CLEMONS: "I just don't want ever to go home" (accompanied with a deep sigh and tears, nearly).

LITTLE MISS ADEALE CLEMONS: "It's the best trip I ever had." (Miss Adeale is the party's mascot.)

MISS MARY MCKENZIE, Concord, Cal.: "I can't express what I feel about the islands. I'll write you when I am home."

MRS. SAMUEL CHAMBERLAIN, Lakeland, Cal.: "Enjoyed every minute."

MISS MADGE MAGGARD, Corning, Cal.: "Best time ever."

MISS DAISY WEITMEYER: Same as above, intensified.

MRS. MADELINE M. KAY, New York: "It has been one of the most pleasant episodes of my life. The trip to the volcano is indescribable."

J. A. WEINBERGER, New York: "Hawaii makes the Bowery look sick."

MRS. J. A. WEINBERGER: "Fifth avenue has nothing on Kalakaua."

MRS. AMELIA KEIPEN, San Francisco: "We want to come back, that's all."

MISS CLARA KEIPEN: "—and mighty quick, too."

W. A. STILES, California Lima Bean Growers' Association, Camarillo, Cal.: "There was no rush nor hurry, that's what we liked best."

MRS. STILES: "My husband has the right idea."

R. B. NORTHERUP, Kansas City: "I'm preparing for the medical profession and doctoring would be play in this beautiful land."

MRS. ALBERT HAYMAN, New York: "I love it."

W. A. ROSSETTI, mechanical superintendent of the San Francisco Call: "The Golden Gate's good enough for me."

MRS. ROSSETTI: "And so is Waikiki."

MISS EVANGELINE SHULTERS, New York city, secretary of the League of Political Education and identified with the Civic Forum: "Everyone of us nearly forgot to say that we have all joined the 'Come Back' Club and have paid our dues in advance."

:: Fraternal and Lodge Notes ::

In the lodge world the work of the secretary may not shine forth so conspicuously as that of other officers, but there is no work that is more important, more essential to the well-being of the lodge than is that of the secretary when faithfully and conscientiously performed. Such is the work of Herbert Dunshee, serving his fifth year as secretary of Honolulu Lodge No. 616, B. P. O. Elks, and of the same faithful and conscientious type is his work as officer in or as member of the other lodges of which he is a member. Brother Dunshee is a member of the Royal Arch Masons, where he holds the rank of "king." He is a Knight Templar, a Scottish Rites Mason and a noble of the Mystic Shrine.

It is nearly five years ago since Herbert Dunshee, having been an Elk for three years at the time, was elected secretary of the Honolulu Elks Lodge. Since then each year he has been the choice of the order for that office. His work is appreciated at face value by his brother Elks. One of the first plans he put into effect was the preparation and issuance of "616 Bulletin," a little publication sent to all members of the Elks Lodge here and published monthly. It is full of member of four Masonic lodges and secretary of Honolulu Lodge No. 616,

B. P. O. Elks.

The news of the order, keeps all in touch with the work and affairs of the lodge and is watched for with keen interest. Since he became secretary of Honolulu Lodge has increased membership by between 150 and 200, has gained about 50 per cent in numerical strength.

All the work of Brother Dunshee in Elksdom is but an example of his faithfulness to the other orders of which he is a member.

At the banquet held to commemorate the thirty-seventh anniversary of Court Lunallilo last Saturday evening, Henry Van Gieson, the toastmaster, said in part:

For the first time, perhaps, in the history of our Order in Hawaii we have come together at this festive scene, having only one common object in view for the perpetuation of the institution that we all love so well. There may be, and probably will be, differences of opinion on various matters, but whether incited by ill-will and jealousy or actuated by honesty of purpose, I sincerely hope that the spirit of this gathering will only serve to insure harmony and friendship among its members.

We must look to the future. The men who originated Forestry in Hawaii thirty-seven years ago had little idea that the few who were called together then would form the nucleus of such an institution as Court Lunallilo is proving itself to be at the present time. I do not understand how it is, but I take it that the very freedom enjoyed by the institution in its infancy is the cause of its success today. We are so numerous now that our influence not only controls our own future, but also affects in no small degree the political destinies of our territory.

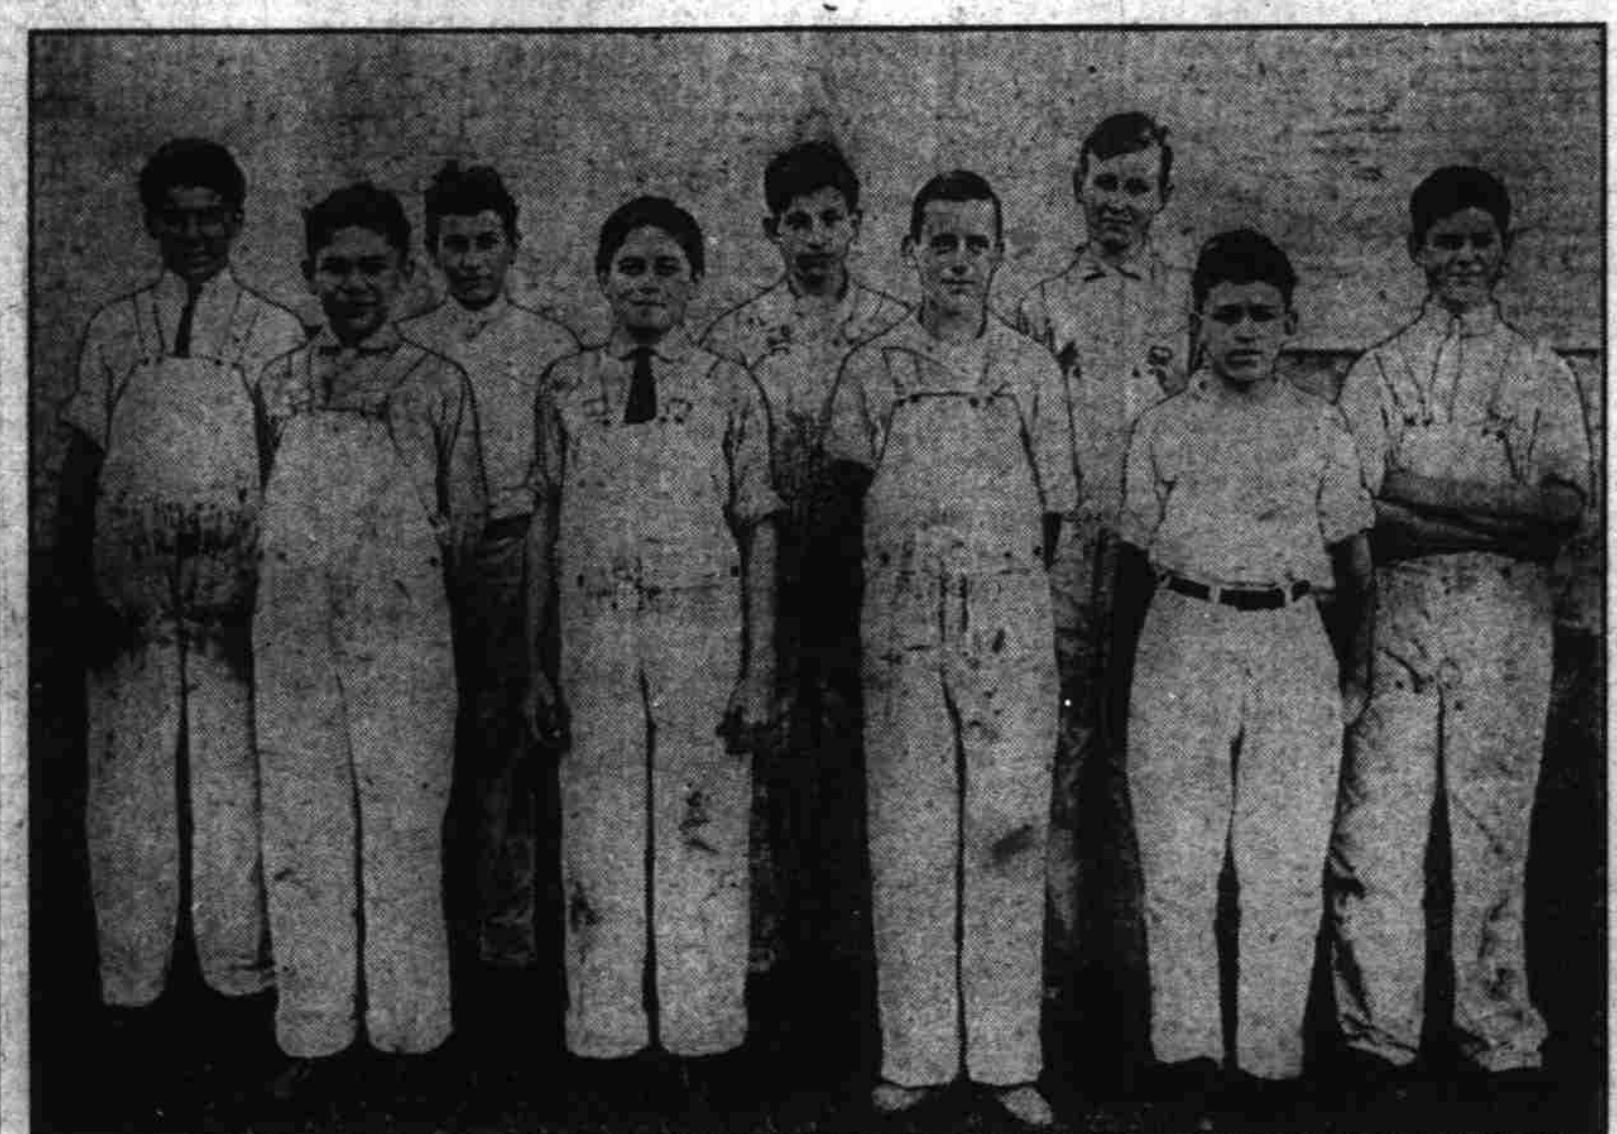

In dealing with the history of the Ancient Order of Foresters, Josepa Orndstein said in part:

Each age has its peculiar conditions and its peculiar statesmanship, and during the eighteenth century the governments had no confidence in men who met in secret as did the early Foresters and Odd Fellows, and they laid at times heavy hands upon them. Books were not kept and lists of members were not thrown open for the world to gaze upon. It has been shop and at noons they change places. Both boys report at the shop for work on Saturday mornings.

The class work at the association is thoroughly organized and under the direction of experienced men teachers. This school opens on August 7 and boys interested should see Educational Secretary Jay A. Urice at the Y. M. C. A. at once.

Printing-Houses Cooperate in Plan to Give Honolulu Boys Valuable Training

The day of the traditional "printer's devil" is passing. That individual, who was formerly a part of the equipment of every print shop and who busied himself at running errands, sweeping the floor, cleaning presses and being the butt of the jokes of the office, will soon cease to exist in the Star-Bulletin establishment and other shops of Honolulu. Not that there is to be an end of cleaning of presses, or sweeping of floors, or practical pranks or of boys to play a prominent part in these attendant activities of the printing trade; but the present-day spirit of training and efficiency has reached even to the sphere of the "printer's devil."

Instead of the boy who knocked about the shop picking up such a knowledge of the trade as he was able, the establishment of the Y. M. C. A. printer's apprentice school by the co-operating printers of Honolulu has introduced the "student printer" who will be taught his trade thoroughly and on a real school basis.

Working half of each day in shops and attending classes half of each day, the boys who are enrolled in the Y. M. C. A. "printer's apprentice school" will be given an unusual opportunity to learn, and learn well, the printing trade. Boys in the school will be taught the practical part of the trade in the shop; the related school subjects they will be taught in the day classes at the Y. M. C. A. The shops in which they are employed will pay them for time spent in school as well as for that spent in the shop.
